Dear Mr. Ashcroft:

As a supporter of Microsoft, I write you with interest in the recent developments of the settlement in the anti-trust suit. The terms of this agreement are fair and reasonable and should be enforced as soon as possible. These terms include bold changes toward the technology industry and should be allowed to speak for themselves.

Microsoft has agreed to some very bold changes in the technology industry that include licensing and marketing alterations. They have also agreed to make changes in design, which allow non-Microsoft companies to install their software on new versions of Windows. All of these concessions will be monitored by a committee that will oversee the enforcement of this agreement. The technology industry is ready to use this settlement as a guideline to move forward and get back to business.

Let us not be the ones to slow down the process that we initiated in the first place. Please help to stop any further actions against this agreement and help get our economy back on track.

Sincerely,

Leonard Simon
